A Shining Star.

To her patients, a trusted friend.
To her colleagues at UCLA, a dedicated physician.
To her students, a caring mentor.
To her community, optimism for a brighter future.

Whether as a physician or as a leader in shaping new approaches to medical training to benefit the health and quality of healthcare for the underserved and uninsured, Michelle brings innovative vision, an entrepreneurial spirit, and a passionate commitment to make a difference.

We in the UCLA Executive MPH Program in Healthcare Management & Policy applaud our fellow alumna Michelle on being honored as Rising Star of the Year by the Los Angeles Business Journal.

She embodies what we strive for in our program: Making a difference, with vision and passion, in our organizations and in the communities we serve.
